

Wood River Health Partners with Block Island School

Did you know that students with good oral health perform better in school? In the United States, cavities (also known as caries or tooth decay) are the most common chronic disease of childhood. Untreated cavities can cause pain and infections that may lead to problems with a child's eating, speaking, playing and learning.

Wood River Health's dental providers are devoted to helping kids lead their healthiest lives. One of the ways we achieve this is by serving as a Dentist of Record for the Chariho Regional School District. We recently partnered with Block Island School in the same way. This will enable our providers to monitor the students' oral health to ensure disparities are recognized and addressed.
